

Inviscid Website Privacy Policy

Oct 2026

Who we are

Effective October 2, 2026.

Inviscid Technologies Inc. ("Inviscid," "we") operates inviscid.capital. This policy explains what we collect through our website, including our waitlist, and what we do with it.

Joining the waitlist does not make you an advisory client. If you become one, we'll provide our Client Privacy Notice, which governs how we handle your financial information.

What we collect

- Information you give us. Your email address and state of residence when you join the waitlist.
- Technical information. When you visit, our hosting providers automatically receive standard request data, such as IP address, browser and device type, and the pages you load. This is needed to deliver the site and protect it from abuse.

We don't ask for financial information through our waitlist.

How we use it

- To manage the waitlist and email you about Inviscid's launch, availability in your state, and related updates.
- To understand where interest in Inviscid is coming from.
- To operate, secure, and improve the website.
- To comply with law and protect our rights.

How we share it

We don't sell your information or share it with anyone for their own marketing. We share it in these cases:

- Service providers and advisers. Companies that host our website, store our data, and deliver our email, and our professional advisers, such as lawyers and accountants. We share it with them only so they can provide services to us.
- Aggregate statistics. We may share aggregated data that does not identify you, such as waitlist signups by state, with investors, prospective investors, and others.
- Legal and safety. When required by law or legal process, or to prevent fraud and protect the rights and safety of Inviscid and others.
- Business transfers. If Inviscid is involved in a merger, acquisition, financing, reorganization, bankruptcy, or sale of assets, including diligence for one, your information may be transferred as part of that transaction, subject to this policy.

Cookies and tracking

We don't use advertising cookies, tracking pixels, or analytics that follow you across sites. Our hosting provider may set strictly necessary cookies for security and performance and may give us aggregate, cookieless traffic statistics.

No third party is permitted to collect information about your activity over time and across other websites through our site. Because we don't track you across sites, our site works the same whether or not your browser sends a Do Not Track or Global Privacy Control signal.

Your choices

- Unsubscribe. Every marketing email we send includes an unsubscribe link.
- Access, correction, and deletion. Email support@inviscid.capital to see, update, or delete the information we hold about you. We'll respond within 45 days. Deleting your information removes you from the waitlist. We may keep a record of your request so we can honor it, information in backups and logs until they expire, and anything the law requires us to keep.

Retention, security, and location

We keep waitlist information until you ask us to delete it or we no longer need it for the purposes in this policy. Technical logs are kept for a limited period, then deleted.

We use administrative, technical, and physical safeguards designed to protect your information. No system is perfectly secure.

Inviscid is based in the United States, and we and our service providers store and process information primarily in the United States. Our website is intended for US residents.

Children

Our website isn't directed to children, and we don't knowingly collect information from anyone under 18. If you believe a minor has given us information, contact us and we'll delete it.

Changes to this policy

We'll post any changes here with a new effective date. For material changes, we'll also email waitlist members before the changes take effect.
